Abilities & powers

Hannes Månsdottir | Hunter

Sixth Sense

Action; Intelligence + Occult; 20 m

Sense whether anything supernatural is within 20 m. On a success, identify its kind, such as undead, demon, fae or Eldritch. A matching specialization doubles the pool.

Akimbo

Two one-handed weapons

+1 success on attacks; +1 additional success when shooting two targets in the same round. Apply the rulebook's separate dual-wielding rules as well.

Monsters Hunter

Known mortal / folkloric monsters

Know a monster's weaknesses: +1 damage and -1 initiative for the target. Does not apply to unique Eldritch entities for which no prior knowledge exists.

Using your character

For the Eldritch cult investigation, use Sixth Sense and Occult. Monsters Hunter does not work on unique Eldritch entities without prior knowledge. Improve Occult and Observe as you gain XP.

Beta notes for the GM

Use the class loadout rather than a new 60-point shopping budget. The class provides no special ammunition; use normal rounds unless the GM awards or approves other ammunition. Follow the weapon rules for dual-wielding modifiers.

Quick reference

Build a pool from an attribute plus a discipline; double it for a matching specialization. Each 6 is a success. Opposing successes cancel. Spend 1 Mana to reroll up to two dice. Damage reduces attributes. At 0 in an attribute, you go down and need treatment. Use the full rulebook for armor, damage types and ability timing.

Background & playing advice

Hannes Månsdottir | Hunter

The journalist who dug too deep.

Background

Hannes was working as a journalist when an investigation led him to a cult with ties to the supernatural. He kept digging until the cult attacked his home, unleashing Eldritch horrors that killed his family. Hannes survived and was recruited by the GDA shortly afterwards. His work gives him the means to identify and confront similar threats while searching for those who took his family from him.

Goal

Find the cult that killed his family and take revenge.

Weakness

When Hannes picks up a promising lead, he can become so absorbed that he loses awareness of his surroundings, overlooking danger or his teammates' needs.

Playing advice

Investigate the threat. Use Observe and Occult to spot danger and understand what you are facing.

Exploit weaknesses. Choose weapons and ammunition suited to the enemy, and share your discoveries with the group.

Provide firepower. Ranged combat is your strength. Find a good firing position before the enemy closes in.

Follow your motivation. Leads connected to the cult may tempt Hannes into taking risks. Use that to create roleplaying opportunities and give the other characters room to respond.

Abilities & powers

Emanuél Markusson | Inquisitor

Memory Manipulation

Successful social roll

Alter or erase up to 10 minutes of one person's memory. Works on humans and humanlike psyches, not Eldritch creatures, undead or mindless beings. Some fanatics may resist, at the GM's discretion.

Forked Tongue

Successful social roll

Make a human accept two contradictory ideas at once. Requires reasoning and comprehension; does not work on animals, undead, Eldritch creatures or fanatics with unshakable faith.

Information Web

Established network of contacts

+2 successes on information gathering. Applies where you already have contacts in society, not foreign dimensions or non-human cultures.

Using your character

Use Information Web to pursue the missing friends through contacts in places where you already have a network. Psychology supports mental treatment; it is not instant supernatural healing.

Beta notes for the GM

The Upper Arm Blade has 2 rune slots. Its Sharp Rune uses both slots and adds +1 damage because the weapon already deals Slashing damage: 3 + 1 = 4. This equipment follows the listed rune rules.

Quick reference

Build a pool from an attribute plus a discipline; double it for a matching specialization. Each 6 is a success. Opposing successes cancel. Spend 1 Mana to reroll up to two dice. Damage reduces attributes. At 0 in an attribute, you go down and need treatment. Use the full rulebook for armor, damage types and ability timing.

Background & playing advice

Emanuél Markusson | Inquisitor

Curiosity led him to the book. He still does not know what it took from him.

Background

When people around Emanuél began disappearing, he searched online for answers. Among forum discussions and witness accounts, he discovered a pattern that led him to an abandoned department store. Inside, he found the missing people standing motionless, staring at a wall.

While investigating, he uncovered clues about a book that stole the soul of anyone who read it. When he found the book, he could not resist opening it. Everything after that is a blank. He woke several hours later to find both his friends and the book gone. A few hours afterwards, the GDA contacted him with a recruitment offer he could not refuse.

Goal

Find his friends and the book, and reclaim their souls.

Weakness

His curiosity often outweighs his caution. He struggles to leave anything unfamiliar unexplored.

Playing advice

Search for answers. Investigate locations, follow clues, and ask questions.

Protect the secret. Use persuasion and memory manipulation to make witnesses question what they saw.

Support mental recovery. Develop Medicine with the Psychology specialization to help treat mental injuries.

Abilities & powers

Tizian Hökstorm | Nanomancer

Nanomancy

Intelligence + Technology; no Mana cost; CPU capacity 30%

Activate a program by rolling Intelligence + Technology and taking its listed CPU load. Tizian's base pool is 3 + 1 = 4d6, doubled to 8d6 when his Programming specialization applies. Nanomancy has no Mana cost. His CPU is full at 30% total load: three 10% programs use 100% of his personal capacity. Attempting another program while full requires a Nanomancy roll; failure causes 1 Wisdom damage and Paralyzed for 1 round. Ending a program frees its CPU immediately. A short rest can clear all active programs. Cannot be combined with Magical Ritual.

Swarm Attack

Action; Intelligence + Technology; 10% CPU; 30 m; no Mana

Send nanites at one enemy within 30 m. Deal 2 damage, ignoring armor. Roll Intelligence + Technology to activate. No duration is stated in the program entry.

Healing Protocol

Intelligence + Technology; 10% CPU; no Mana

Roll Intelligence + Technology to activate. When using a discipline to heal someone, also heal 1 additional point in another attribute. This supplements the healing discipline check; it is not a replacement for that check. No duration is stated in the program entry.

Equipment and CPU

CPU capacity: 30% | CPU in use: 0%. Start in the leather coat. Exoskeleton Power Armor is an alternative suit: armor 7 and Strength 5 while worn. Change current Strength and carrying capacity manually. Do not add both suits' armor values. Techno Knight is not selected.

Using your character

Healing Protocol enhances a healing discipline check; it does not replace Medicine. Consider Repair Protocol as a later purchase. The exoskeleton and implants are class equipment, not extra abilities: Techno Knight has not been selected.

Beta notes for the GM

Nanomancy uses Intelligence + Technology and has no Mana cost. CPU capacity is Intelligence x 10% = 30%. The overload limit is 100% of that personal capacity: three programs at 10% fill Tizian's CPU. At full capacity, attempting another program requires a Nanomancy roll; failure causes 1 Wisdom damage and Paralyzed for 1 round. The author has corrected the class weapon to Short Sword + Sharp Rune: its 2 rune slots hold the rune, and damage is 3 + 1 = 4 Slashing.

Quick reference

Build a pool from an attribute plus a discipline; double it for a matching specialization. Each 6 is a success. Opposing successes cancel. Spend 1 Mana to reroll up to two dice. Damage reduces attributes. At 0 in an attribute, you go down and need treatment. Use the full rulebook for armor, damage types and ability timing.

Background & playing advice

Tizian Hökstorm | Nanomancer

The technology enthusiast who became part of the experiment.

Background

Tizian's enthusiasm for technology caught the GDA's attention and led to his recruitment into its experimental nanomachine programme. He became one of the early candidates to have a nanocore implanted directly into his body. Now assigned to a commanding officer, he must field-test the technology under real operational conditions.

For Tizian, the assignment is a step towards a future in which nanomachines can help everyone. He wants to prove that the technology can be trusted, even under the most demanding circumstances.

Goal

Make nanomachines stable and reliable enough to become widely available.

Weakness

Tizian struggles to recognise the drawbacks of technological innovation and can rarely resist the latest gadget.

Playing advice

Keep the team going. Invest in nanoprograms that heal physical damage.

Solve technical problems. Develop abilities that help you examine, repair, and influence technology.

Manage your workload. Choose the programs you need for the situation and keep track of your CPU load.

Stone with Memory-Manipulating Rune	Show the rune to other humans: they lose their memory of the last 30 minutes.
Injector Pen with Healing Salve	One use: heal 1d6 non-critical physical attribute damage.
Tarot Deck	Spend 1 Mana and 10 minutes to ask the GM one question. The answer must be true but may be cryptic.

Class equipment is included at no cost. Spare equipment points: 0. Agree carrying-slot accounting with the GM; this sheet does not silently remove class gear.

Abilities & powers

Emilia Olsson | Mage

Magical Ritual

Intelligence + Occult; matching Magic specialization

Allows rituals from the Magic section. Emilia's normal pool is (5 + 2) x 2 = 14d6 for relevant Magic rolls. Rituals take time and can be interrupted. They cannot directly affect greater Eldritch powers or cosmic horrors, but may affect servants or infested areas. Cannot be combined with Nanomancy.

Water Jet

3 Mana with Creator; Magical Ritual roll

Normal cost 2 Mana, increased by Creator to 3. Fire a high-pressure water jet: 1 Water damage for the first 6; each extra 6 doubles the damage.

Creator

Creation specialization; passive modifiers

Creation Magic costs 1 less Mana (minimum 1). Healing and Combat Spells cost 1 extra Mana. Cannot also select Healer or Destroyer. Once per scene, Genesis can avoid its superficial damage cost, but Emilia has not learned Genesis yet.

Black Tower Laptop: loaded rituals

Bless Weapon (laptop ritual)

1 Mana; 20 min; +2 difficulty steps. Weapon gains an extra damage type for one scene: Bludgeoning, Slashing, Piercing, Fire, Water, Air, Electricity or Earth.

Protect Object (laptop ritual)

1 Mana; 20 min; +2 difficulty steps. Object gains +1 armor against a chosen damage type, excluding Void. The entry does not specify duration; agree with the GM.

Inspiration Hymn (laptop ritual)

1 Mana; 20 min; +2 difficulty steps. Allies gain +2 Social Interaction and +1 Athletics for one scene.

The laptop imposes +2 difficulty steps and doubles casting time (already shown above). An hour connected to its database lets you replace its three rituals.

Using your character

Creator is selected. Water Jet therefore costs 3 Mana, not its normal 2. Conjure Tool (125 XP) is a useful next purchase; Creator alone does not teach it. Genesis is also not yet learned, so its Creator synergy is a future benefit.

Beta notes for the GM

The author has corrected the Mage to 3 discipline points. Emilia has Occult 2 (Magic) and Academia 1 (Chemistry); the extra Medicine 1 (Triage) entry has been removed. The laptop's three rituals are item access, not extra purchased abilities.

Quick reference

Build a pool from an attribute plus a discipline; double it for a matching specialization. Each 6 is a success. Opposing successes cancel. Spend 1 Mana to reroll up to two dice. Damage reduces attributes. At 0 in an attribute, you go down and need treatment. Use the full rulebook for armor, damage types and ability timing.

Background & playing advice

Emilia Olsson | Mage

She found proof that magic works. The price was higher than she could have imagined.

Background

Emilia had been fascinated by the supernatural since childhood, collecting crystals and books about white magic. Everything changed when she found an untitled book in a second-hand shop. Its spells were real: if she followed the instructions exactly, they worked.

But a ritual she did not fully understand opened a portal to Hell. A demon emerged, seized her, and began draining something from her. Suddenly, it heard something following it through the portal and fled into the night. Emilia lost consciousness.

She awoke in GDA custody and received an ultimatum: work for them or never see daylight again.

Goal

Find the demon and reclaim whatever it stole from her.

Weakness

Emilia is convinced that she knows best, even in situations she does not understand.

Playing advice

Be the occult specialist. What you know about a phenomenon or creature can mean the difference between life and death.

Choose the right spell. Some creatures shrug off conventional weapons. Your magic can give the group a way to fight them.

Solve problems through creation. With the right specialization, you can create tools the group lacks.

Abilities & powers

Maria Gonzales | Protector

Ki

Action; 2 Mana; scene / up to 10 min

Choose one element at activation. Fire: +1 Fire melee damage and +1d6 for strength/endurance. Water: hold breath 10 minutes, move freely in water, +1d6 for agility/balance. Earth: +2 armor; cannot be made Prone or Restrained by physical forces. Air: +5 m movement and +1d6 for stealth/acrobatics/evasion. Electricity: an action may paralyze a target for 1 round (their Strength + Wisdom opposed by your Intelligence + Occult); +1d6 for fast reactions. Only one element at a time. Ends if Paralyzed, Asleep or unconscious. Cannot be active with Chi. GM confirms element eligibility.

Bodyguard

Ally within 2 m is being attacked

Swap places with the ally who is being attacked, putting yourself in the danger. Coordinate with your team and stay close enough to intervene.

Resist

Starting type: Slashing; reaction to change: 1 Mana

Gain Resistance to the chosen damage type: roll an extra d6 and subtract it from damage of that type. Spend 1 Mana as a reaction to change to another damage type.

Using your character

Resist starts with Slashing selected. Spend 1 Mana as a reaction to change its damage type. Earth Ki is a useful defensive choice; Air Ki helps positioning. There is no automatic taunt ability: draw attention through positioning and actions agreed with the GM.

Beta notes for the GM

Ki requires a discipline tied to the chosen element. Maria's printed class lists Occult (Spirits); the GM should confirm which elements it supports. The class lists several armor-granting items without a clear stacking rule. Their individual values are recorded; no combined armor total is assumed.

Quick reference

Build a pool from an attribute plus a discipline; double it for a matching specialization. Each 6 is a success. Opposing successes cancel. Spend 1 Mana to reroll up to two dice. Damage reduces attributes. At 0 in an attribute, you go down and need treatment. Use the full rulebook for armor, damage types and ability timing.

Background & playing advice

Maria Gonzales | Protector

She became a police officer to protect people. Now she knows how much they need protection from.

Background

Since childhood, Maria had been the one who stood up to schoolyard bullies. Her determination to protect the vulnerable and follow the rules made a career in the police a natural choice.

Then came the case that could not be explained. The investigation concluded that the victim had died in an animal attack, but Maria had seen the body. She refused to accept the explanation and kept digging, drawing on contacts she neither should have used nor trusted.

Eventually, she came face to face with the beast. She opened fire, but her bullets had no effect. She would have died if GDA agents had not intervened. Their commanding officer had been following her investigation, allowing her to continue to see whether she had what it took. When they offered her the chance to protect people from threats the police could not handle, she accepted.

Goal

Protect civilians from paranormal threats and discover how far the GDA's influence reaches behind the scenes.

Weakness

Maria tends to see the world in black and white. Her rigid principles make it difficult for her to accept ambiguity and compromise.

Playing advice

Be where you are needed. Invest in movement abilities and Bodyguard so you can get between a threat and someone who needs protection.

Stay on your feet. Prioritise abilities and equipment that help you survive when things go wrong.

Draw the threat towards you. Use your position and actions to make enemies focus on you, giving more vulnerable teammates room to act.
